HEALTH CLEARANCE REQUIREMENTS AND INSTRUCTIONS

Obtaining a health clearance is a non-waivable requirement for all LIU Global students. In addition to meeting all specific requirements of the LIU Global program as set forth in the general program description below, all student participants must meet the following general requirements of program participation:

- possess the physical and mental well-being required to: live and study in the applicable foreign setting where resources may be different or fewer than those to which they are accustomed; exercise good judgment; and safely fulfill all essential components of their study abroad program. Students must be able to display flexibility and to function in the face of potentially uncertain or stressful situations.
- be able to align their health care needs with the limited resources that may exist at a nearby health care facility.
- be able to live in a setting quite different from that to which they may be accustomed and that may aggravate any existing health conditions (e.g., dormitories that may not be air-conditioned or afford privacy, homestays with local families, etc.).
- participate in typical classroom work (standard classroom activities such as assigned readings, written assignments, participation in discussions and written and/or oral examinations).
- participate in excursions, field trips and other group activities in remote areas, which may include physical activity such as hiking, walking, swimming/snorkeling, etc.

General Program Description

LIU Global combines a structured and focused curriculum with the freedom of independent study. LIU Global utilizes classroom and field-based seminars, low faculty to student ratios, community-based service learning, directed independent study projects and internships. This is an experiential program and students interact with the local community, environment, faculty, advisors and other students around the world. Field trips are an integral part of the experiential learning component of a course. While students learn through readings, lecture and class discussion, an important and major aspect of the LIU Global model is taking the classroom experience out into the field. These field experiences require a certain amount of physical endurance. The below is a sample list outlining the types of experiences a student may encounter.

Asia Pacific: Use of public transportation, some local travel over rough roads, some boat rides, carrying own bags up to a half mile, some light hiking, standing for long periods, frequent changes of location affecting energy levels, sleep cycles, and digestion.

Australia: Walking, easy hiking, swimming, kayaking and snorkeling. Activities may include camping, moderate walks and hikes in National Parks (up to 5 hours at a time), easy climbing/bouldering and swimming. Bicycling and walking are the most common modes of transportation in country.

China: Use of public transportation. Activities include hiking up and down mountains. Students will visit the edge of the Tibetan Plateau where the altitude is around 10,000 feet and altitude sickness is a concern.

Costa Rica: Use of public transportation, private buses, boat rides and walking. Activities include hiking in the rainforest on narrow, dirt paths; walking on dirt roads to visit indigenous groups in rural parts of the country; tours of farms, boat rides that require getting into the boat from shore, assisting with construction or painting projects and leading sporting activities.

Europe: Use of public transportation, private buses, and walking. Bicycling and walking are the most common modes of transportation in Alcalá and Florence. There may be stairs to climb in your homestays and apartments, as older buildings often do not have elevators.

New York: Use of public transportation, moderate walking.
