A GREAT AMERICAN ROAD TRIP!
TEDDY ROOSEVELT AND HUTTON HOUSE LECTURES

Hutton House Lectures, a lifelong learning academy for adult students, and the new Theodore Roosevelt Institute of LIU, took a road trip around the North Shore of Long Island to share the legacy of our nation’s 26th president. On March 29, 2019, Joe Wiegand, the world’s premiere Theodore Roosevelt reprisor, presented a spirited and authentic live performance as TR, the soldier, statesman, explorer, scientist, historian and author to audiences at the Bristal Assisted Living in Jericho, the Hutton House Lectures at LIU Post’s Krasnoff Theater, and the Life Enrichment Center at Oyster Bay, Teddy’s hometown. If you missed out on the excitement, you can meet TR in person at our next event: Theodore Roosevelt Institute Symposium, October 25-27, 2019 at LIU Post.
Dive into fascinating stories with Hutton House’s new Saturday Speaker Series. Our inaugural speaker is NBC Sunday Night Football’s executive producer, Fred Gaudelli, a graduate of LIU Post’s broadcasting degree program and winner of 22 Emmy awards. He will be interviewed before a live audience by Long Island University’s Division I College Football Coach, Bryan Collins.

Gaudelli will discuss how he is preparing for Super Bowl LIV, the 54th event in Miami on Feb. 2, 2020. He has produced the Super Bowl for seven consecutive years. Gaudelli’s Super Bowl XLIX ranks as the most-watched program in U.S. television history with an average of 114.4 million viewers. VIP seating is available to Hutton House students.

OUR HERITAGE: HUMANITIES HALL

Constructed in 1967 at the western tip of the Great Lawn, Humanities Hall is two-story academic building with 25 classrooms, a 200-seat lecture hall, TV studio, dance studio and graphic design laboratories. The Mary and Buck Lai Fountain, a granite semi-circular fountain inscribed with the motto, “Access to the American Dream Through Excellence in Higher Education,” became an elegant addition to the building in 2009. Every undergraduate student at LIU Post, numbering well over a half-million people, have taken a course in this building. Humanities Hall has been the scene for numerous TV shows and movies, including “The Rewrite” with Hugh Grant, J.K. Simmons and Allison Janney, and Netflix’s “Unbreakable Kimmy Schmidt.”
